

ANOTHER INTERNATIONAL WEDDING

Miss Cridler's Marriage To Guy Dannat Haviland Kept Secret One Month

Jusserand To Be Host Of Officers Anniversary

Anniversary Of Wedding Celebrated

WASHINGTON official and resident society, as well as musical circles, are equally interested in the recent wedding of Miss Lillian Alden Cridler, daughter of former Assistant Secretary of State Thomas W. Cridler, of Washington, and Guy Dannat Haviland, of Limoges, France. Mr. and Mrs. Cridler have just announced the marriage, which took place April 18, in St. Michael's Church, in New York, Rev. Dr. Peters officiating.

Miss Cridler met Mr. Haviland during her school days at Neuilly, France, whence she but recently returned with Mrs. Cridler, spending a portion of last winter in Washington, at the Marlborough.

Mr. Haviland is a son of the famous manufacturer, and has been in college in this country, at Harvard, for some time. He will be graduated this spring.

They will return to Paris after commencement, and will spend the summer in the chateau of the bridegroom's parents.

Miss Cridler grew up in Washington and both her parents and herself have hosts of friends here. Miss Cridler's mother died when she was very young, and she has grown up under the care of her father's second wife, who was Miss Muriel E. Telchow, a native of Sweden, a woman of great cultivation, much beauty, and great charm of manner.

The mother of Miss Cridler was in her girlhood Miss Addie Prosper, a brilliant and cultivated pianist and a daughter of a leading musician here. From her she inherited great musical talent and has become a charming pianist under the recent tuition of Moszkowski.

Among the schoolmates of Miss Cridler in Paris were Mrs. Cary Langhorne, who was until a month ago Miss Zaidie Gaff, and of her cousin, Miss Holmes, of Cincinnati, who was Miss Gaff's maid of honor.

Miss Cridler made her first appearance in society in Paris, when she acted as a bridesmaid to Miss Fort's daughter, the American ambassador to France, at that time. She was greatly admired on that occasion for her good looks and grace. Mrs. Cridler has been in New York with Miss Cridler since they leased their home on Rhode Island avenue.

It had been the intention of the family to keep the marriage a secret until the bridegroom was graduated, but the news crept out in spite of them.

The Viscountess Aoki, wife of the Japanese ambassador, will sail June 10 from New York to spend the early part of the summer in Germany, returning later to meet the ambassador at Buena Vista, Md., where they will establish the embassy for the summer.

Mme. Godoy, wife of the Mexican minister to Cuba, will be at home this afternoon for the last time this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Foulke and the purpose of securing an endorsement for Vice President Fairbanks' candidacy.

"The Taft and the Cannon booms have both been given encouragement by the President," remarked one of Mr. Fairbanks' friends, "so, in order to be impartial, the President will undoubtedly say a good word for the man from Indiana."

Hemenway Smiles.

When Senator Hemenway emerged from the President's office, the correspondents made a rush.

"Has the President endorsed Fairbanks?" was the breathless question.

Senator Hemenway smiled broadly and shook his head rapidly in lieu of answer.

"Is the Vice President's boom any stronger now than it was when you went into the President's office?" asked another.

Forest of Timber.

"All the Presidential booms seem to be in fine shape," he replied evasively.

"Why, don't you see? The Republican party can't go wrong if it wants to; can't make a mistake if it tries. With such good timber to choose from as Fairbanks, Cannon, Knox, Taft, and all the rest that would make good Presidents, how can you figure it out that the party can possibly fail to do the right thing?"

Senator Hemenway smiled, shook his head more, but kept his lips tightly closed.

Thousand Children Picnic With Teachers and Parents; Steamer Ride to River View

When the little folks embarked on the big boat this morning there was not a sign of a catastrophe. There never was a merrier, jollier group of youngsters gathered together. They came in groups of large and small numbers, each little boy and girl carrying a box or a basket containing a real picnic lunch. Their little feet could hardly move fast enough to get them from the cars to the gang plank, and as they trooped onto the lower deck of the steamer, happiness and anticipation of all sorts of good times were written in every line of their countenance.

A program containing all kinds of games and athletic sports was arranged some days ago, and immediately upon arrival at River View of the afternoon boat this program will be put into effect. In order that the girls might not understand that discrimination had been made, games and races have been arranged for their special benefit, and they will be eligible to as many prizes as the boys. An evening boat will go down at 6:45 p. m., returning to Washington at 10:30 o'clock.

BALTIMORE PORTS

NOT VALIDIZED

"UNWRITTEN LAW" FAILS ONE WOMAN

Brigadier General Crozier, Chief of Ordnance of the War Department, has informed the people of Baltimore with regard to the dismantling of the historic old forts of McHenry and Howard, which once were depended upon to protect Baltimore from enemies.

Mrs. William B. Fallon, representing a number of patriotic and civic societies of Baltimore, has written a letter to the President, protesting against what she thought was the entire dismantling of Fort McHenry, and it was referred to the War Department.

Mrs. Fallon has been informed by General Crozier that all the cannon and cannon balls now at Fort McHenry have been given to the city of Baltimore, as authorized by law, except a lot of cannon balls which it was desired to reserve to decorate Fort Howard. The department has also given to the city of Baltimore three 8-inch muzzle-loading rifles, to be mounted on three carriages at Fort McHenry.
